The explosion which occurred in the Rabbit's Foot mine the other evening, a full account of which appeared in next morning's Herald, illustrates the risk a miner has to run in taking wealth from the earth to give it to the children of men. WANTS TO TRADE BACK.

The local Republican organ wants the Republican ticket elected because, it says, "the need of reform in the city's affairs and a change to decent methods of doing business is urgent." years ago the Republican party was in full control of municipal affairs and it made exactly the same plea to get rid of Republican rule.

It wants Exra Thompson elected mayor so he can "rescue the city from the grasp of a gang of reckless and ent incompetents." When we had a Republican mayor and city coun cil and treasurer and attorney and all, it wanted John Clark elected for the

None of these were ever identified with the Demoare behind it, and that Aguinaldo simply represents them in a military capacity." But what did the Tribune say about it when there is no partisan campaign to warp its nature? It says that Aguinaldo went to Manila in Admiral Dewey's flagship and began his operations with the advice and concurrence of Admiral Dewey, and inasmuch as our government has approved of what Admiral Dewey did, that made us the allies of those dusky rebels." months ago it reiterated that sentiment, and we leave it to wrestle with the World-Herald the best it can.

It is in order to ask what "certain newspapers in the United States" have recognized Aguinaido as a George Washington, credited the Tagals with fighting in a higher cause than nerved the arms and wakened the souls of our revolutionary forefathers, and whether or not it was done for political effect? The Republican organ will not dare to it occuries on this question today unless it repudiates its whole course up to the time it discovered the corpse of History of the Play.

All critics agree that "Love's Labor's Shakespeare's rise plays, and some of the highest authorities rank it as his first independent work General consent puts the date of its composition somewhere between 1529 and 1532. We need not trouble ourselves about the exact year. When we know that we have in "Love's Lubor's Lost" one of the earliest, if not the very first, of Shakespeare's creations in the field of poetic comedy, we know enough.

Dr. Brandes sees in Rosaline and Berowne the first sketch of Beatrice and Benedick, and there is a certain similarity in the situation. But when we hear Rosaline exulting over her lover's plight and promising herself all the joys of a pretty tyranny—This same Berowne I'll torture 'ere I go'—we are irresistibly reminded of a gentler lady than Beatrice and a witter maid than Rosaline herself, the pretty page of the forest of Arden, who led Orlando through such a mad cure for the madness of love, being "effeminate, changeable, longing and liking; proud, fantastical, apish, shallow, inconstant, full of tears, full of smiles, for every passion something, and for
